The MLA Quotation Burger

Using quotes in your MLA paper helps support the points you are making, but if you don’t set up a quote properly, it can confuse your audience. Your readers need to move from your words to the words of a source without feeling a jolt. One helpful analogy is a hamburger.

The Top Bun

Use a signal phrase. A signal phrase prepares your readers for what is coming. Here are some phrases for introducing quotations:

- X writes, “…” (208).
- X believes, “…” (37).
- X says, “…” (3).
- According to X, “…” (20).

The Meat

The meat is the quote itself. Choose words and phrases that help support your ideas. Be sure to quote the words exactly!

The Bottom Bun

You need to tell your reader why and/or how this quote connects to the point you are making in your paper and/or in the paragraph. Here are some sample phrases for explaining quotations:

- X is saying that . . .
- In other words, X believes . . .
- This passage reveals . . .
- These words suggest . . .
- X’s point is that . . .
- X’s words show why . . .
Examples of the Quotation Burger

Aristotle believes, “It is the mark of an educated mind to be able to entertain a thought without accepting it” (23). In other words, as educated people, we should be willing to listen to and respect other people’s thoughts and ideas, even if we don’t agree with them.

Harry S. Truman insists, “The buck stops here” (126). Truman’s words suggest that you should take responsibility for a mistake if you make one.

Abraham Lincoln notes, “No man is good enough to govern another man without that other’s consent” (55). Lincoln’s words carry a clear implication: it is arrogant and tyrannical for anyone to claim control over another as a natural state.
